DO YOU NEED A TUNE-UP?

Americans spend thousands of dollars keeping their cars in good condition but often neglect their own health and physical fitness. They run, jog, walk, swim and exercise their way back in shape . . . ignoring the risk of injury during physical activity.

STAR Fitness Screening

The Fitness Screening Program at the Sports Treatment and Rehabilitation Center (STAR) at Fort Sanders Regional Medical Center can help these people shape up, stay healthy and injury free.

Sports therapists with sophisticated equipment can test for weak muscles, limited joint flexibility, improper body alignment, poor cardiovascular condition and excessive body fat. Specific exercises are then prescribed for a safe tune-up.

Who Needs A Fitness Screening?

Individuals starting an exercise program . . . The fitness advocate . . . the organized sports participant . . . the curiosity seeker . . . dieters in a weight loss program . . . the weekend athlete . . . and people who want to learn how exercise affects the body.

The STAR Fitness Screening includes:

- An evaluation of primary muscle groups using the Cybex II Isokinetic Dynamometer.
- Joint range of motion measurements to determine relative tightness or looseness of specific joints.
- A postural evaluation indicating structural or postural abnormalities which could contribute to increased stress being placed on weight bearing structures.
- Body fat assessment using both underwater weighing and skinfold caliper techniques to determine relative body leanness.
- An assessment of aerobic capacity determined by a bicycle ergometer evaluation.
- A test of lung capacity and function.

Individual parts of the screening are available. Test results and exercise prescriptions are given at a follow-up review session.

STAR. A Program for Professional and Weekend Athletes Alike

STAR recognizes the same principles of injury prevention and sports rehabilitation that the pros depend on are just as important to the weekend athlete.

STAR is staffed with highly qualified physical therapists and an exercise physiologist experienced in current treatment and rehabilitation techniques for specific athletic injuries.

Working on a physician's referral basis, therapists use a variety of treatment modalities and implement individualized progressive resistance exercise programs to encourage safe, quick return to normal activity.
