Stark runs away from Expo 10,000 field

Baxter is top female finisher; Anderson wins in wheelchair

By MIKE STRANGE
News-Sentinel sportswriter

John Young got the guitar, but Dennis Stark called the tune Saturday in the 13th annual Expo 10,000.

Stark, a 28-year-old Canadian graduate student at East Tennessee State University, ran away with his first Expo on a chilly morning that brought about 1,500 runners downtown to help open the Dogwood Arts Festival.

The outcome was obvious by the midpoint of the 6.2-mile course and when Stark crossed the finish line on Locust Street in 30 minutes, 50 seconds, there wasn't another runner in sight.

Young, the defending champion and the only other runner to challenge Stark after the opening sprint, finished in 31:29.

Angie Baxter of Maryville, meanwhile, beat a weak field to win the women's title in 37:59.

Another Maryvillian, Lawrence Anderson, rolled to his fifth Expo wheelchair title in 37:17.

As usual, runners and walkers of all shapes and ages participated in Knoxville's most popular race — but not as many as usual. The 1,278 that finished the 10K was the smallest in Expo history, dipping well below the 1,576 in the inaugural running in 1978.

The only real drama at the head of the pack came in Expo's first detour through the Old City neighborhood.

Stark, a three-time cross-country All-American at ETSU in the early 1980s, shot away from the pack in the first few blocks.

"That's just the way I run," he said. "I don't worry about the guys behind me. I only worry about the ones in front of me."

There weren't any Saturday. With most of the local top guns conspicuously absent, Knoxville's Young was the only runner to take Stark's challenge.

At 1½ miles, Young, running off Stark's shoulder on Henley Street, stripped off his gloves and tossed them to the sidewalk.

Past the second mile mark on Depot Street, Young began to push, taking a 10-yard lead on the downhill grade of Jackson Street toward the Old City.

Waiting at the bottom of the hill was a tape and the first runner to pass it would win a guitar from Hewgley's Music Shop. Young had sensed Stark was too strong to put away later and figured he might as well get something for his troubles.

"I thought that's what he was doing," Stark said later. "I knew where the Old City began so I thought about trying to race him for the guitar."

"But then we'd both be slogging the last half of the race and I decided it's not worth it. I wanted to win the race."

Sure enough, Young slowed after the turn from Jackson onto Central and Stark put him away on the climb up Summit Hill to Gay.

Soon after, at mile 3, three-time champion Phil Kane, riding in the WBIR-TV camera truck, pronounced the race over. He was right. At mile 4, Stark's lead had swelled to 150 yards and Young might as well have been strumming his guitar.

Stark was enthusiastic about the victory, and about his progress since returning to competitive running after a four-year layoff.

"I quit running in 1984, went home (Belleville, Ontario) and got up to 207 pounds," he said. "I decided to come back to school last January. I thought it would take me four years to get back in shape, but it's only been one year and three months and I'm on the verge of getting back in the shape I was in in college."

"This course was great. I'd like to go over it again in September."

The new course got generally good reviews from a random sampling of Expo veterans.

"The hills coming up Summit Hill made it tougher," said Baxter, who had run four previous Expos and was the second woman finisher last year.

"I liked running down in the Old City," said Lauren Terry, a first-grade teacher at Bluegrass School. "The potholes made it more dangerous for running, but aesthetically, it was more enjoyable."

The chilly weather — Expo was moved up six weeks from its usual date — might have been a test for spectators, but the runners didn't mind. The temperature was in the low-30s, a welcome relief from the usual heat and humidity of late May.

"Another five degrees would have been perfect," said Stark, who grew up on the northern shore of Lake Ontario.

New Salem Methodist wins 3-way church race

Oak Hill captures school competition

By MIKE STRANGE
News-Sentinel sportswriter

Oak Hill School and New Salem Methodist of Rising Fawn, Ga., won cash prizes in the Expo 10,000 school and church competitions Saturday.

New Salem Methodist edged the Tennessee Valley Unitarian Church and Episcopal Church of the Good Samaritan.

In the school division, Oak Hill beat out Carter Middle School and Shannondale Elementary.

First prize in each division was $300. Second got $200 and third $100.

Nine states were represented. Besides Tennessee, neighbors Kentucky, Georgia and North Carolina sent the most runners. Virginia, South Carolina, Missouri, Alabama and Texas also were represented.

Fifty-seven runners were registered as participating in the Volunteer Tour, a statewide series of races. John Young, the runner-up overall, led the Tour participants in 31:29.

Lawrence Anderson of Maryville won the wheelchair division for the fifth time, in 37:17. Mark Tilson was second (41:43) and Phillip Wells (51:40) third. Anderson finished third overall behind Dennis Stark and John Young, but had a head start of several minutes.

CATEGORIES: Gregory Petty led the 220 pounds and over division in 49:10. Ashley Sullivan paced the 17 Knox County doctors in 36:21, while Sherman Ames led the 18 lawyers in 37:36.

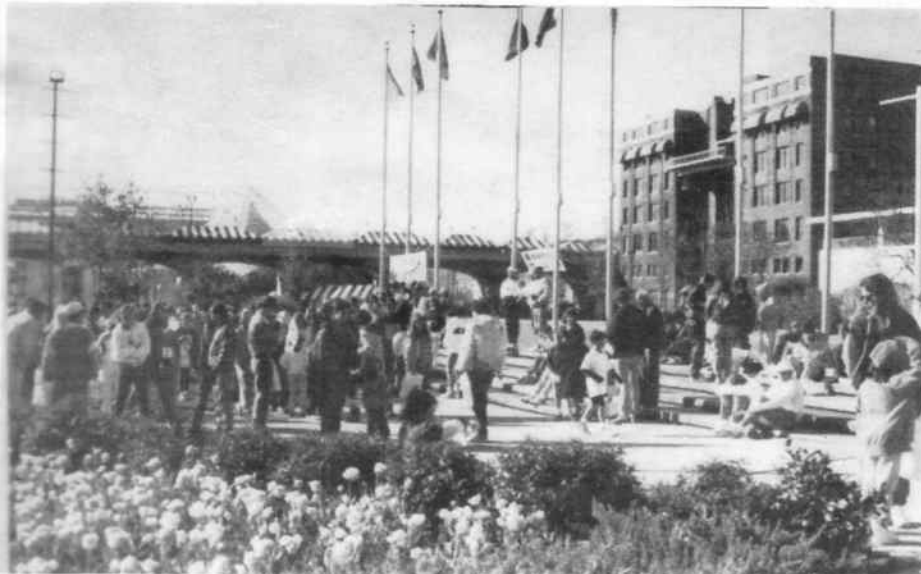

Lloyd Smith's 42:30 led the 12-man Knoxville Fire Department delegation. Only one Knoxville Police Department representative was listed on the computerized results.

John Jenkins (36:07) and Chip Jenkins (38:40) were the father-son winners. Charles Montgomery (42:47) and Suzanne Etheridge (43:20) won the father-daughter. Sandra Simmons (51:34) and Ben Simmons (40:14) won the mother-son, and Linda Mize (43:43) and Rebecca Mize (53:59) the mother-daughter.

Buddy (39:42) and Kay Martin (42:23) led the husband-wife race over 31 other couples.

FOOTNOTES: One runner was seen lugging a backpack that he said weighed 40 pounds. Another carried a large American flag. ... UT assistant basketball coach Dean Lockwood hit the finish in 42:04. ... Red Britt, an Expo veteran in the canine division, was on hand.

The Old City won the water-station competition.

REGIONAL MEDICAL CENTER

April 26, 1990

Dear EXPO Runner:

Standing there on the World's Fair Site, with the wind filling the Court of Flags, I said to myself, "Well, we sure did correct the problem of heat and high humidity this go around. No question about it, EXPO 90 was not a hot one, about 31 degrees at the gun. It was fine weather for running; not so fine for hanging around afterwards with a cold drink in one's hand. About the only sure thing you can say about the weather, other than it being temperamental is that it sure makes for conversation.

We moved the date this year so that it would not be hot. We succeeded. We moved it to be a part of the Dogwood Arts Festival, so that U.T. would be in session, so that it would not conflict with Cotton Row Weekend. We succeeded on all counts. Was the race more successful as a result?

We made some other changes as well. We made the course a bit more hilly, and we hope a bit more interesting with the jog through the Old City. John Young certainly was pleased with his guitar from Hewgley's. We made it the RRCA Regional Championship and gave commemorative medallions to everybody. We provided a water station at the end of the chute, added a new finish line, and held post race ceremonies on the World's Fair Site. For the first time in EXPO history we even gave out 100% cotton, long sleeve t-shirts. Again, was the race more successful? Our intention was to make it so.

The runner is ultimately the judge and 300 fewer of you came out than you did last year, 1717 in both races. In fact, we had the smallest 10-K field in EXPO history.

Fill out the card and let us know your thoughts. What would have to happen to EXPO so that you would make it top priority, an event you would never even think of missing--if there is such an event in your life. Peachtree has 40,000 runners. Do you have a better time there than here? If so, why? My desire is really not to have 40,000 runners in K-town, but 5000 would be nice.

On behalf on the Knoxville Track Club, I thank you for running with us this April 7. We welcome you to run with us again in EXPO 1991 or in many of the other races in the KTC calendar for 1990.

Cordially,
